3. Add 7^{1/4}% sales tax on the merchandise total, only if you live in California (new rate effective 7/1/11).

You can also send us an order by email (mail@ripoffpress.com) and pay for it by Paypal.

WHAT TO DO IN CASE OF ORDER PROBLEMS

Our e-mail address is mail@ripoffpress.com. If you're not yet one of the millions of people with access to e-mail, you can call us by phone. Please call 530 885-8183. If you change your mind about items you've ordered after receiving them, we will accept returns on items other than video and audio tapes, and CD's. PUBLISHER'S OVERLAY PROOFS

Before most of our comix titles were printed, either the printer or the company which created the film color separations (from which the plates were made for printing the color covers of the comix) provided us with a color proof so that we could make sure the color would look OK before we went to press. These were usually the overlay type, in which clear films with an emulsion the same color as the four process colors of printer's ink are exposed to the actual separation negatives and put together to simulate the final printed appearance. They tend to be very bright and shiny looking, and have more dimensionality than an actual comic cover since they are made up of several different layers.

For the vast majority of our publications there has only ever been one POP made, the one which was created when the title was first sent to press. This makes them much rarer than animation cels, since even on comic titles that sold tens of thousands of copies there was only one single POP-not thousands as there are cels that go to make up an animated film. Over the years we have amassed quite a few of these, and we are now offering some of them as art collectibles. Many of them represent the entire comic cover exactly as it was printed, while others are images of the artist's original cover painting only and do not include the text which was added mechanically giving the cover price, publisher's logo and other information.

Each POP is accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity from Rip Off Press, certifying that this POP is the one and only original made as part of the process of publishing the title in question. Individual POP prices reflect the popularity of the artist or title, condition and appearance of the POP, and size. Most comic cover POP's are approximately 7" by 10" with some additional border, whereas magazine size is 8 1/2" by 11" plus border and wraps are 10" by 14".

RIP OFF COMIX

The original Rip Off Comix series began in the mid-1970's as a vehicle for the comix produced by the Rip Off Comics Syndicate. It ceased publication following issue 12 in 1983. In 1987 we brought the series back as a quarterly anthology magazine, starting with issue 14 (thereby neatly avoiding the "jinx" factor and also any disappointment on the part of readers who may have read the original ads for issue 13, and expected contents which never materialized to appear). A few issues still remain in print, collecting outstanding comix from the likes of Gilbert Shelton, Paul Mavrides, Hal Robins, Larry Todd, Dori Seda and many more.

Rip Off #14 Comic
"The Face of War" features stories about war (and peace) by Spain, Shelton, Dori Seda and others. Includes Gilbert Shelton's classic "Smiling Sargeant Death." $4.95

Tubes are not eligible for First Class Mail International so they must go at the much higher Priority Mail International rate (and won't fit in the cheap flat rate mailer, either). So effective immediately, there is a US$20 shipping surcharge for poster tubes mailing to outside the USA. Sorry! $4.95
